1 EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

The healthcare sector stands at the nexus of public health and economic growth. In recent years, the Philippines has experienced notable advancements in the industry facilitated by the enactment of pivotal health legislation.

The Philippine Healthcare Sector Market Study provides an in-depth analysis of the Philippine healthcare sector, aiming to offer valuable insights to investors and healthcare stakeholders about the current landscape. The study covers various aspects, including the structure of the healthcare system, key market trends, challenges, opportunities, and regulatory environment.

This document features information on Philippine health governance, including national healthcare programs and the prevalence of top diseases as of late 2023. Key figures on the country and its population will be presented, focusing on post-pandemic behaviour trends as well as shifts towards preventive and holistic healthcare approaches. The report will likewise detail household expenditures in the healthcare sector, as well as trade data for the pharmaceutical and medical devices sub-groups.

Lastly, the report will examine sector trends and market opportunities for Austrian companies. This will include a detailed assessment of healthcare products, such as pharmaceuticals, home medical equipment, and hospital equipment, as well as healthcare services, including outpatient and inpatient services. The report will also explore trends in healthcare logistics, focusing on mobile hospitals, pharmaceutical delivery equipment, and controlled environment warehousing.

Overall, this study will serve as an essential resource for Austrian companies seeking to enter or expand their presence in the Philippine healthcare market, providing actionable insights and identifying key growth opportunities.

2 HEALTHCARE SECTOR IN THE PHILIPPINES

2.1 Health governance

2.1.1 National Healthcare Program

The Philippines' national health program is a multifaceted approach aimed at enhancing public health and ensuring equitable access to healthcare services for all citizens. Central to this effort is the Universal Health Care (UHC) program, which was established to provide all Filipinos with access to quality health services without financial hardship. Enacted in 2019, the UHC Act seeks to improve health service delivery and expand access to healthcare across the country. This comprehensive approach involves integrating health services, promoting preventive care, and ensuring financial risk protection for the population (PhilHealth, n.d.); Montemayor, 2019).

A significant component of the national health strategy is the National Integrated Cancer Control Program (NICCP). Launched in collaboration with the World Health Organization (WHO), the NICCP's 2024-2028 strategic framework aims to enhance cancer prevention, treatment, and palliative care. This initiative builds on the foundation laid by the National Integrated Cancer Control Act (NICCA) of 2019, which significantly improved access to cancer centres and provided financial support for cancer care. The program emphasises the importance of setting priorities and strengthening capacities to achieve strategic goals in cancer control, thereby addressing one of the leading causes of mortality in the country (WHO, 2024).

Mental health is another critical area addressed by the national health program. The Philippine Council for Mental Health Strategic Framework 2024-2028, developed with support from WHO, focuses on reducing premature mortality, preventing and treating substance abuse, and improving mental health services. Since the passage of the Mental Health Act in 2018, the country has scaled up mental health services and established a 24/7 crisis hotline. This framework underscores the government's commitment to addressing mental health care inequities and enhancing the mental well-being of Filipinos (WHO, 2023).

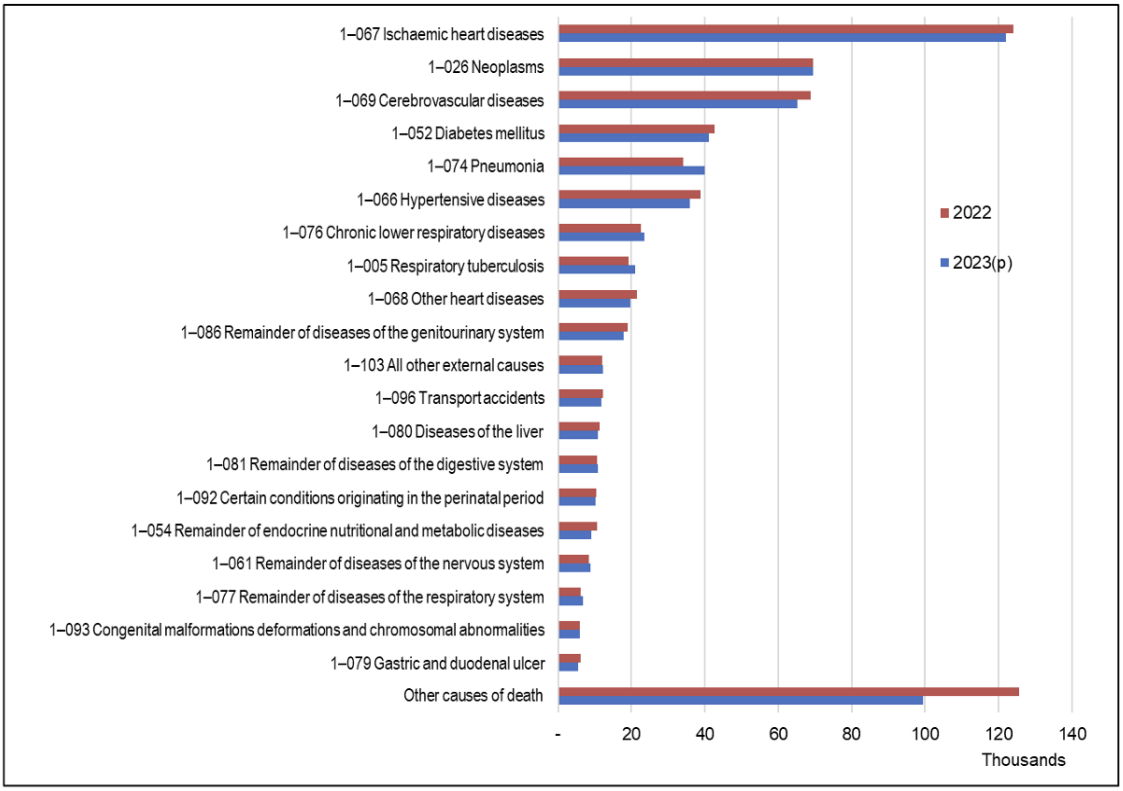

In addition to these targeted programs, the Department of Health (DOH) lays out various other health initiatives, such as the Adolescent Health and Development Program, which addresses the specific health needs of adolescents; the Aedes-Borne Viral Diseases Prevention and Control Program, which focuses on diseases like dengue; and the Barangay Nutrition Scholar Program, aimed at improving community-based nutrition. These programs reflect the government's holistic approach to health, targeting a wide range of health issues to ensure comprehensive care (DOH, n.d.)

These initiatives are part of a broader effort to strengthen the Philippine health system, ensuring it is responsive to the needs of the population and capable of providing equitable, high-quality healthcare. By integrating health services, promoting preventive care, and ensuring financial protection, the national health program aims to improve overall health outcomes and enhance the quality of life for all Filipinos.

2.1.2 Top Diseases as of end 2023

As of the end of 2023, the Philippines continued to grapple with significant health challenges, with chronic and non-communicable diseases (NCDs) leading as the primary causes of mortality. According to the Philippine Statistics Authority (PSA), the top three causes of death in the country were ischaemic heart diseases, neoplasms (cancers), and cerebrovascular diseases.

Source: Philippine Statistics Authority (Data on deaths are those registered at the Office of the City/Municipal Civil Registrars throughout the country and submitted to the Office of the Civil Registrar General using Certificate of Death-Municipal Form No. 103)

Notes: Symptoms, signs, and abnormal clinical and laboratory findings, not elsewhere classified (R00-R99) are not included in the analysis due to the unspecified nature of these causes

Causes of death are coded based on the ICD-10 Rules and Guidelines and mortality grouping is based on the Mortality Tabulation List of ICD-10

1. Ischaemic Heart Diseases: Ischaemic heart diseases, which include heart attacks and other heart-related conditions, were the leading cause of death, accounting for approximately 18.8 % of total deaths in the Philippines for 2023. These diseases caused 122,027 fatalities, underscoring the burden of cardiovascular diseases (CVDs) in the country (PSA, 2024; BusinessWorld, 2024). This prevalence is consistent with global trends, where cardiovascular diseases remain a leading cause of death (WHO, 2023).

2. Cerebrovascular Diseases: Ranking third, cerebrovascular diseases, including strokes and other conditions affecting blood flow to the brain, caused 65,224 deaths, also comprising about 10.1 % of the total mortality (PSA, 2024). These conditions highlight the critical need for effective management of risk factors such as hypertension, diabetes, and lifestyle choices that contribute to the high incidence of stroke and related diseases (Philippine News Agency, 2023).

3. Neoplasms: Neoplasms, or abnormal growths of tissue that can lead to cancers, were the second leading cause of death. In 2023, they accounted for 69,449 deaths, making up about 10.7 % of total deaths. The high mortality rate from cancers reflects both the increasing incidence of the disease and the challenges in early detection and effective treatment. Efforts to combat cancer in the Philippines include public health initiatives aimed at improving screening and access to treatment (PSA, 2023; Gulf News, 2023).

4. Diabetes mellitus: In 2023, diabetes mellitus was responsible for 41,056 deaths, accounting for 6.3 % of all fatalities, thus ranking as the fourth leading cause of death. This condition arises from elevated blood glucose levels caused by insufficient insulin production or improper utilization of insulin by the body. Key risk factors include a family history of diabetes and excess weight or obesity. In the Philippines, the prevalence of diabetes notably rises after the age of 40 (Montemayor, 2023).

5. Pneumonia: Pneumonia emerged as the fifth leading cause of death in 2023, with 40,082 reported cases, representing 6.2 % of total deaths. The rise in pneumonia cases can be partly attributed to heightened population movement and reduced adherence to public health guidelines following the COVID-19 pandemic. This trend is particularly concerning for unvaccinated children aged 5 and under. This issue is particularly alarming for unvaccinated children under the age of 5. According to the Field Health Services Information System Report, approximately 31,395 Filipino children under 5 died from pneumonia in 2021, and around 60,500 were affected by the disease in 2022 (Montemayor, 2023).

Infectious Diseases

While chronic diseases dominate the leading causes of death, infectious diseases remain a significant public health issue in the Philippines.

6. Tuberculosis (TB): Tuberculosis continues to be a major health concern. The country has one of the highest TB incidence rates in the world, with efforts ongoing to improve diagnosis, treatment, and prevention (World Bank, 2023) According to the DOH, 612,534 new cases of tuberculosis were reported in 2023. This figure is an increase from the data in 2022 and translates to about 549 cases per 100,000 people (Philippine Senate, 2024).

7. Dengue Fever: Dengue fever, a mosquito-borne viral infection, frequently results in epidemics, especially during the rainy season. It remains a leading cause of morbidity and mortality, with the DOH implementing various vector control measures and public awareness campaigns to combat the disease (WHO, 2024). The number of dengue cases reported by the DOH by the end of 2023 was 195,603, a 23 % decrease from 2022. Additionally, there were 657 dengue-related deaths in 2023, marking a decrease from the 894 deaths reported from the previous year. (WHO, 2024)

8. Human immunodeficiency virus (HIV) / acquired immunodeficiency syndrome (AIDS): The Philippines has witnessed an increase in the number of newly diagnosed HIV cases, as evidenced by the data from December 2023. It was estimated that by the end of 2023, there will be 189,000 estimated People Living with HIV (PLHIV) in the country. Since 2021, the number of newly diagnosed HIV cases reported per month has been increasing. From 1,027 new cases recorded monthly on average in 2021, the new case count by the last quarter of 2023 had increased to 1,438.

Among the estimated PLHIV, 119,145 cases have been confirmed through diagnosis or laboratory tests as of December 2023, with no reports of death for these individuals. Of these confirmed cases, 94 % were male and 6 % were female. The age range of diagnosed individuals spans from under 1 year to 81 years, with a median age of 28 (DOH, 2023).

Distribution of cases in 2023 by age group

25 to 24 years old	63,493 (50 %)

The National Capital Region (NCR), Central Luzon, Central Visayas, Western Visayas, CALABARZON, and Davao Region were the regions that reported the highest number of cases. 12,867 cases, or 75 % of the total, were reported from these regions combined. The remaining 4,384 cases, or 25 %, were spread throughout the nation's various regions, while three cases—or less than 1 %—were reported from overseas permanent residents (DOH, 2023).

According to DOH estimates based on the AIDS Epidemic Model and Spectrum, the number of diagnosed cases is expected to increase to 36,700 by 2030. The number of PLHIV is expected to climb to 401,700 from 215,400 in 2024 (Montemayor, 2024).

2.1.3 Public and Private Healthcare Share as of end 2023

As of the end of 2023, the Philippine government allocated approximately PHP 314.7 billion to health in the said year, representing a substantial increase from the previous year's PHP 268.4 billion (Department of Budget and Management, 2023). Under this allocation, the spending priorities are the National Health Insurance Program (PHP 100.2 billion), Medical Assistance to indigent and Financially-Incapacitated Patients (PHP 32.6 billion), and Purchase and Allocation of Drugs, Medicines, and Vaccines (PHP 29.1 billion).

Moreover, the total health expenditure (THE) of the country, at PHP 1.44 trillion in 2023, saw a 17 % increase from the PHP 1.23 trillion expenditure in 2022, translating to a 5.9 % share in the country's Gross Domestic Product (GDP). Out of the 2023 THE, current health expenditure (CHE) was at 86.3 %, while Health Capital Formation Expenditure (HK) was at 13.7 %. This results in a 9.2 % increase in CHE for 2022 and HK growth of 113.6 % (PSA, 2024).

In the same year, the household out-of-pocket payments contributed the most to total CHE, accounting for 44.4 %. This was followed by government schemes and compulsory healthcare financing schemes at 42.6 % and voluntary health care payment schemes at 13 %. On a per capita basis, health spending in 2023 amounted to PHP 11,083, which was higher by 8.3 % compared with the amount recorded the previous year at PHP 10,238 (PSA, 2024).

The table below shows a breakdown and comparison on health expenditure by health financing scheme from 2022 to 2023. Government schemes saw an increase in 2023 from 2022, while compulsory contributory health care financing schemes decreased over the same period. Under this category, central government schemes and state/regional/local government schemes both increased from 2022 to 2023.

On the other hand, compulsory contributory health insurance schemes, specifically social health insurance schemes, decreased in 2023. Meanwhile, voluntary health care payment and enterprise financing schemes saw a rise, especially for the former. Notably, household out-of-pocket payments increased significantly in 2023 from the previous year (PSA, 2024).

2.2 Key figures on country and population

Demographic Overview

As of 2023, the population of the Philippines is approximately 115 million people (World Bank, 2023). This marks a substantial increase from previous years, highlighting the country's rapid population growth. The Philippines is characterised by its youthful demographic, with a median age of about 24 years (CIA World Factbook, 2023).

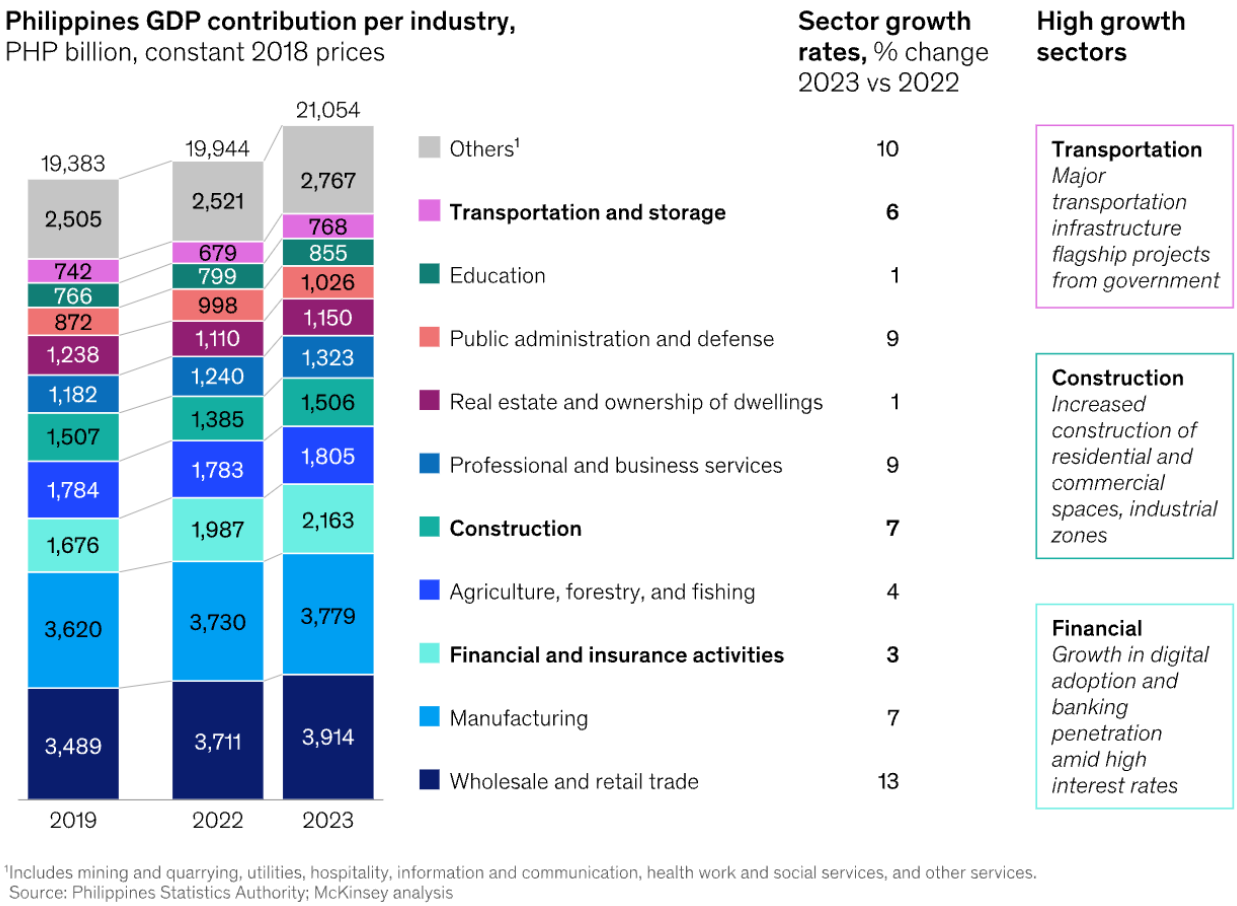

Population Density and Urbanisation

The Philippines has a high population density, with an average of 365 people per square kilometre (World Bank, 2023). This density varies significantly between urban and rural areas. Metro Manila, the National Capital Region, is one of the most densely populated areas in the country, contributing to its status as the economic and political hub of the nation. Urbanisation has been accelerating, with over 47 % of the population residing in urban areas as of 2023 (United Nations [UN], 2023). This trend towards urbanisation is driven by economic opportunities and better living conditions in cities.

Economic Indicators

The Philippines' GDP in 2023 is estimated to be USD 423 billion, with a GDP per capita of approximately USD 3,700 (World Bank, 2023). The economy has shown resilience and growth, driven by sectors such as services, manufacturing, and remittances from Overseas Filipino Workers (OFWs). The country's economic structure is increasingly oriented towards services, which account for around 60 % of the GDP, followed by industry and agriculture. The country's GDP growth was at 5.6 % (PSA, 2024).

Meanwhile, the inflation rate for 2023 was at 6 %. The figure reflects a decline from the peak inflation rates observed in 2022, which were significantly higher due to various economic pressures, including global supply chain disruptions and rising commodity prices. Food and non-alcoholic beverages were major contributors to inflation (PSA, 2024).

Education and Literacy, Employment

Educational attainment and literacy rates are key indicators of a country's development. As of 2023, the literacy rate in the Philippines is approximately 98 % (UNESCO, 2023). The country has made significant strides in improving educational access and quality, although challenges remain, particularly in rural and underserved areas.

In December 2023, the Philippines experienced a significant decline in its unemployment rate, which fell to 3.1 % from 4.3 % in December 2022 and 3.6 % in November 2023. This translates to approximately 1.60 million unemployed individuals, a reduction from 2.22 million in December 2022 and 1.83 million in November 2023.

Simultaneously, the employment rate in December 2023 rose to 96.9 %, up from 95.7 % in December 2022 and 96.4 % in November 2023. The labour force participation rate (LFPR) also saw an increase, reaching 66.6 % in December 2023, compared to 66.4 % in December 2022 and 65.9 % in November 2023.

This higher LFPR in December 2023 indicates that 52.13 million Filipinos aged 15 and over were either employed or actively seeking employment. This is an increase from 51.22 million in December 2022 and 51.47 million in November 2023. These improvements reflect a strengthening labour market and greater economic participation among the working-age population (PSA, 2024).

The labour market showed signs of improvement, with a notable recovery in employment rates as commercial activities resumed and public infrastructure spending increased. The services sector, particularly transportation and storage, experienced substantial growth, contributing to job creation (McKinsey, 2023).

Health and Life Expectancy

Health indicators have also shown improvement over recent years. The life expectancy at birth is approximately 71 years (World Bank, 2023). Advances in healthcare and improvements in living conditions have contributed to this increase. However, disparities in healthcare access and quality between urban and rural areas continue to pose challenges.

2.2.1 Post Pandemic Behaviour/Attitude Trends

The COVID-19 pandemic has significantly influenced societal behaviours and attitudes worldwide. In the Philippines, the post-pandemic period has seen notable shifts in how people approach health, work, and social interactions. These changes reflect both the immediate impacts of the pandemic and longer-term adaptations to new realities.

Health and Hygiene Practices
One of the most pronounced changes in post-pandemic behaviour in the Philippines is a heightened awareness and adherence to health and hygiene practices. The pandemic emphasised the importance of personal hygiene, leading to lasting habits such as frequent hand washing, use of hand sanitizers, and wearing masks in public spaces.
In 2022, the Philippine government also issued Executive Order No. 7, which allows the voluntary wearing of face masks in indoor and outdoor settings (Official Gazette, 2022). In light of this development, according to a survey by the Social Weather Stations (SWS), 70 % of Filipinos continue to use masks regularly or most of the time, even as restrictions have eased (SWS, 2023).

Digital Transformation and Remote Work
The pandemic accelerated the adoption of digital technologies and remote work. Businesses and educational institutions quickly transitioned to online platforms, and this trend has remained even in the post-pandemic set-up, making remote work and flexible working arrangements becoming more common. In a 2023 study, it was noted that Filipinos prefer more flexible working arrangements, with 46 % opting for hybrid model, and 28 % choosing a fully remote model (SEEK, 2023. This shift has led to changes in workplace dynamics, with employees valuing flexibility and work-life balance more than before.

Changes in Consumer Behavior
Consumer behaviour has also undergone significant changes. The pandemic prompted a surge in e-commerce and online shopping as people sought safer alternatives to traditional retail environments. It is projected that e-commerce will grow by a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 17 % between 2021 and 2025 (GlobalData, 2021). Likewise, a survey in 2023 has shown that out of all the Filipino consumers' reasons for choosing a healthier lifestyle, gaining long-term health benefits, becoming more physically fit, and having better mental health came as the top three (Vero, 2023).

Mental Health Awareness
The pandemic brought mental health issues to the forefront, and there is a growing awareness and openness about mental health in the Philippines. Of the 11,017 calls the National Center for Mental Health (NCMH) received in 2020, 1,322 calls (12 %) referenced suicide. In the first half of 2021, the hotline received 8,949 calls in just over a year after the COVID-19 lockdown. By the beginning of the fourth quarter of 2021, 4,978 (33.4 % of 14,903 calls) were classified as high-risk (Congressional Policy and Budget Research Department, 2023).

Further situating mental health in the context of the pandemic, a survey conducted among 145 mental health and psychosocial support providers revealed that nearly all respondents had observed a notable increase in mental health issues among individuals seeking help in the Philippines since the onset of COVID-19. The survey highlighted a substantial rise in cases of anxiety and depression, with additional concerns reported in bipolar and related disorders, trauma-related disorders, and behaviors associated with suicide risk, including suicidal thoughts and attempts (Bollettino et al., 2023).

The COVID-19 pandemic served as a catalyst for breaking down barriers to access and reducing the stigma associated with mental health treatment. During this period, Filipinos increasingly turned to teletherapy, which became a crucial tool in providing mental health support while maintaining social distancing. Additionally, there was a marked increase in awareness and education around mental health issues, leading to more open conversations and a better understanding of mental health's importance. These positive outcomes have fostered a more supportive environment for mental health care in the country, encouraging individuals to seek help and prioritise their mental well-being (Bollettino et al., 2023).

Social Interaction and Community Engagement
Social interaction and community engagement have evolved in response to the pandemic. Social distancing measures and lockdowns led to changes in how people connect with others. Post-pandemic, there is a renewed emphasis on safe social gatherings and community support. Many Filipinos have embraced a hybrid approach to socialising, combining virtual and in-person interactions to maintain relationships while ensuring safety (SWS, 2023).

Travel and Leisure
Travel and leisure behaviours have also adapted. While domestic travel has rebounded strongly, international travel remains cautious. Filipinos have shown a preference for local and regional destinations, reflecting both a desire to explore local attractions and a concern for potential travel restrictions and health risks (Tourism Promotions Board, 2023). 2023 was noted to be a year for tourism recovery for the Philippines, with a reported achievement of year-end target in visitor arrivals in the said year (Department of Tourism, 2024).

Telemedicine and Telehealth
Telemedicine usage in the Philippines experienced a significant surge during the COVID-19 pandemic. According to studies, video consultations increased from an average of 5 monthly visits in 2019 to 495 visits per month between March 2020 and March 2022. The peak in telemedicine utilization occurred in October 2020, when video consultations made up 10.9 % of the total. Another notable increase was recorded in January 2021, with a 54.5 % rise in video consultations compared to the previous year.

This trend is attributed to increased mobile phone usage, improved patient satisfaction, and government support for telemedicine during the pandemic. The COVID-19 crisis catalyzed the advancement and distribution of telemedicine programs in the Philippines, providing an alternative healthcare delivery method amid restrictions and lockdowns. Furthermore, the digital health market in the Philippines is projected to reach USD 830.90 million in 2024, with an expected annual growth rate (compound annual growth rate from 2024 to 2029) of 10.60 %, reaching USD1,375.00 million by 2029. The largest segment within this market is Digital Treatment & Care, which is expected to generate USD 427.30 million in revenue in 2024. While telemedicine usage declined after the initial peak, it remained elevated compared to pre-pandemic levels, signalling its continued prominence in the country's healthcare system even in the post-COVID era (Aban et al., 2024; Statista, 2024).

A study with 200 participants indicated that telemedicine was viewed as a viable and effective alternative to in-person consultations. Although it is not always considered a suitable alternative for all health conditions, particularly those necessitating physical examinations and traditional diagnostic procedures (Noceda et al., 2023).

Additionally, a recent report by Standard Insights, based on a January 2024 online survey of 2,555 Filipino participants, sheds light on the awareness, usage, and perception of TeleHealth and teleconsultation services in the Philippines. The study reveals that the majority of respondents—mostly students and full-time workers across various age groups—have yet to engage in teleconsultation, with 77.5 % reporting no prior use. Acceptance of teleconsultation is highest among the 25-34 age group, while younger respondents, especially those aged 18-24, show a declining interest. Regional differences are evident, with the Visayas region recording the highest refusal rate, while the National Capital Region leads in acceptance.
The survey also explores comfort levels in sharing personal health data during teleconsultations, finding that most respondents are moderately comfortable, particularly younger participants. However, discomfort increases among older respondents, and a mixed response is noted in Luzon and the National Capital Region. The primary reason for non-utilization remains a preference for in-person consultations (30.8 %), a trend consistent across age groups and regions. Privacy concerns and lack of awareness also contribute to this hesitation, with males showing slightly more discomfort and a greater lack of awareness than females (Standard Insights, 2024).

2.2.2 Shift to Prevention and Holistic Approach to Healthcare

The healthcare landscape in the Philippines is experiencing a significant transformation, moving from a curative approach to a preventive care model. This shift has an impact on various aspects of the health system, including the implementation of innovative programs and the revision of health policies (Jaminola et al., 2023).

However, while preventive healthcare has gained significant traction in the Philippines, recent data reflect the need to further boost public knowledge and support for equitable access to preventive healthcare services. An August 2023 study conducted involving 1,205 respondents showed that only 40 % of Filipinos have annual medical check-ups. Breaking down the remaining results – 33 % seek medical attention when feeling unwell, 15 % rarely do so, 7 % have check-ups every two to three years, and 4 % never get a check-up (Philippine Senate, 2023).

Recent trends in preventive and holistic healthcare approaches and data are seen in various areas, including:

- Mental Health and Well-being: Mental health has become a significant concern in the Philippines, with approximately 6 million Filipinos estimated to live with depression and/or anxiety. The country has the third highest rate of mental health problems in the Western Pacific Region. Despite this prevalence, government spending on mental health remains low at 0.22 % of total health expenditures. Filipinos often exhibit reluctance towards formal help-seeking due to financial constraints, stigma, and cultural factors (Martinez et al, 2020).
- Nutrition and Dietary Practices: The Philippines faces a double burden of malnutrition, with both undernutrition and overnutrition present. Despite some progress, 28.8 % of children under 5 years of age are still affected by stunting, which is higher than the Asian regional average of 21.8 %. Additionally, 5.8 % of children under 5 are affected by wasting. The country has shown limited progress in addressing diet-related NCDs, with 8.8 % of adult women and 6.4 % of adult men living with obesity. Diabetes affects 7.8 % of adult women and 7.9 % of adult men.
- Physical Activity and Exercise Programs: Physical inactivity has an impact on public health in the Philippines. According to the 2019 Philippine Food and Nutrition Research Institute (FNRI), 84.6 % of Filipino adolescents aged 10-17 years do not meet the recommended amount of physical activity for health. This high prevalence of physical inactivity raises a public health issue that deserves attention from local authorities and stakeholders (Cagas et al, 2022). To address this, the Active Transport program has been implemented, promoting cycling and walking as alternative forms of transportation. Since 2021, more than 500 km of bicycle lanes have been built or improved in the Metropolitan areas of Manila, Davao, and Cebu (WHO, 2023).

Moreover, in 2022, the government allocated PHP 20 billion to preventive health programs, a 15 % increase from the previous year (Department of Budget and Management, 2022). This funding supports various initiatives, including community health education, vaccination drives, and the establishment of wellness centres.

2.3 Average household expenditure on healthcare

Per most recent data, the average household in the Philippines spent approximately PHP 11,083 on healthcare in 2023. This is an 8.3 % increase from the previous year's PHP 10,341.73. Based on reports covering a 5-year period, the average household expenditure on healthcare has generally seen an upward trend, particularly from 2018 to 2021. (PSA, 2024).

Year	Health Expenditure Per Capita (in PHP)	Growth from previous year (%)
2019	7,580	11.0

2023	11,083	8.3

2.3.1 Current Health Expenditure by Income Quintile (in million PHP)

Covering the period of 2018 to 2023, health expenditures have generally increased across all quintiles. The below data indicates a consistent increase in health expenditures across all income levels, with higher quintiles spending significantly more compared to lower quintiles (PSA, 2024).

2.3.2 Current Health Expenditure by Health Care Provider (in million PHP)

In terms of health expenditure by health care providers, hospitals accounted for the largest share of health expenditure, with spending rising from PHP 554,984 million in 2022 to PHP 571,772 million in 2023. General hospitals saw growth, particularly public general hospitals, which increased from PHP 216,731 million in 2022 to PHP 228,203 million in 2023.

Meanwhile, expenditure on mental health hospitals and facilities, though relatively small, showed an increase over the same period. Providers of ancillary services, as well as providers of health care system administration and financing also saw increases (PSA, 2024).

2.3.3 Current Health Expenditure by Disease Group (in million PHP)

In the Philippines, the health expenditure data for 2022 and 2023 reveals significant shifts in funding across various disease groups. In 2023, the highest expenditure was directed towards noncommunicable diseases, totalling PHP 727,832 million. Conversely, spending on infectious and parasitic diseases saw a notable decrease from PHP 340,683.35 million in 2022 to PHP 250,270 million in 2023.

In the area of infectious and parasitic diseases, expenditures decreased from PHP 250,270 million in 2022 to PHP 150,896 million in 2023. Nutritional deficiencies and non-specific expenditures saw a modest increase, while injuries experienced reduction. The spending on noncommunicable diseases highlights a shift towards managing chronic conditions, aligning with broader health priorities, and emerging trends in healthcare needs (PSA, 2024).

2.4 Import and export of healthcare products

The pharmaceutical market in the Philippines had total sales amounting to PHP 236 billion as of September 2022. The market's total sales have gradually increased since 2018, although at a rather slow pace (Balita, 2023).

In 2023, pharmaceutical products exported from the Philippines amounted to approximately USD 57 million, indicating a significant decrease from the previous year's total. The value of pharmaceutical products exported from the country has fluctuated since 2012, with the lowest value reported in 2018 at USD 39.77 million (Balita, 2024).

The country imported about USD 2.35 billion in 2023, reflecting a modest decrease from 2022. The import value has varied since 2012, including a significant rise between 2020 and 2021 (Balita, 2024). India accounted for the highest share of pharmaceutical products imported to the Philippines in 2023, at 16.4 %. The United States, Germany, and France were also among the leading sources of these pharmaceutical imports to the country (Balita, 2024).

In 2023, medicaments (HS Code 30.04) dominated the export sector with a substantial share of nearly USD 49.6 million. This was followed by wadding, gauze, bandages, and similar items (HS Code 30.05), which accounted for USD 6.46 million in exports. On the import side, medicaments (HS Code 30.04) also led with approximately USD 1.69 billion, while imports of human and animal blood, vaccines, toxins, and related products (HS Code 30.02) amounted to USD 529.39 million.

Of Philippine imports, medicinal and pharmaceutical products made up 1.8 % in 2023, this figure slightly decreased from 1.9 % in 2022. For the major imports from European Union (EU) member states last year, medicinal and pharmaceutical products were significant, totalling USD 853.15 million. This amount represented 10.9 % of the total EU imports for 2023 (PSA, 2024).

3 KEY SUB-SECTORS IN THE HEALTHCARE INDUSTRY

3.1 Pharmaceutical

The pharmaceutical market in the Philippines had a last recorded value in sales of PHP 238 billion (IQVIA, 2022), and an estimated market value of USD 3.3 billion in 2020 (GlobalData, 2022). Trailing only behind Indonesia and Thailand, it is ranked the third largest when put against its ASEAN counterparts. The industry was able to recover in 2021 following a 4 % recorded decline the year prior, growing by 8 %. The implementation of the Universal Health Care program is also expected to help the industry grow by 8–11 % in the next few years. Moreover, data from the first quarter of 2022 show that annual total value sales have increased by 17 % to PHP 237 billion (IQVIA, 2022). During the period 2017-2022, 3.5 % of the total global sales of new medicines launched was recorded from pharmerging countries, i.e. those that hold low positioning in the pharmaceutical market but have a speedy growth, including the Philippines (IQVIA, 2023). The said sector is also projected to grow at a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of over 1 % from 2017 to 2026 (GlobalData, 2022).

Most of the pharmaceutical products available in the Philippine market are imported. As of July 2018, 62 % of all registered drugs for consumption in the Philippines were imported, while only 38 % were locally produced. In 2018, around 28.4 % of these imported drugs came from India, Europe provided approximately 12 %, and East Asia contributed 10 % (Philippine Competition Commission [PCC], 2020).

The market is largely dominated by key players who are involved in nearly every stage of the value chain (Board of Investments, 2022). It is divided into three licence types: originators, branded generics, and unbranded generics (PCC, 2020). Foreign companies hold an estimated 75 % of the market share, with major corporations such as Sanofi, Pfizer, and GlaxoSmithKline standing out (Bajpai, 2019). Of this, multinational corporations control a substantial portion by accounting for over 56.5 % of the sales value. Nevertheless, local companies are making significant advancements and emerging as competitors, particularly for generic drugs (Board of Investments, 2022).

According to the Philippine Economic Zone Authority, there are 26 active companies specialising in pharmaceuticals and medical equipment or devices by the end of 2023. These enterprises collectively generate approximately PHP 25.489 billion in investments and provide over 19,000 employment opportunities nationwide (Department of Trade and Industry, 2024).

3.2 Medical Devices (Market Size, Key Players)

The Philippines medical devices market was valued at USD 747 million in 2021. (GlobalData, 2022). Its demand is supplied primarily through importation, which accounts for 99.2 % of the market. This is especially the case for highly advanced devices like those used in the treatment of cancer, dialysis, respiratory conditions, and diagnostic imaging. The production of replacement parts and medical supplies remains the exclusive focus of the country's medical device sector (International Trade Administration, 2022). Similar to the pharmaceutical sector, the medical devices market is likewise poised to expand, with a foreseen growth in CAGR of more than 8 %. (GlobalData, 2022)
Key players present in the Philippines include GE Healthcare, Medtronic, Abbott, BD, Boston Scientific, Siemens, and Philips (International Trade Administration, 2022).

3.3 Health Institutions

Government hospitals and clinics in the Philippines are heavily utilised, particularly by individuals from lower-income backgrounds. This extensive use reflects the critical role these public healthcare facilities play in providing essential medical services to underserved populations. Government healthcare services are distributed across the country, but there is a notable concentration in urban areas where the demand is higher. Funding for these facilities primarily comes from the DOH and government budgets, which support the operational and infrastructure costs necessary to deliver healthcare services to the public.

In contrast, private healthcare services are predominantly utilised by middle and upper-income individuals who seek faster and higher-quality medical care. The preference for private healthcare is driven by the desire for more immediate and personalised services, which are often associated with better amenities and shorter wait times. Private healthcare facilities are concentrated in urban centres such as Metro Manila, Cebu, and Davao, where there is a higher density of affluent populations. Funding for private healthcare is sourced from private insurance plans, out-of-pocket payments by patients, and corporate health programs provided by employers.

As a general sector trend, the role of insurance in healthcare is becoming increasingly significant due to the expansion of public and private health insurance schemes. The utilisation of insurance-funded healthcare services is growing as more people gain access to coverage through PhilHealth, the country's public health insurance program, and various private insurance options. This trend is evident across the nation, although there is a higher utilisation rate in urban areas where there is greater access to both insurance coverage and healthcare facilities. Insurance funding is provided through a combination of public insurance (PhilHealth), private insurance schemes, employer-based health insurance, and government subsidies, which collectively support a broad spectrum of healthcare needs for the insured population.

4 SECTOR TRENDS AND MARKET OPPORTUNITIES FOR AUSTRIAN COMPANIES

Outlook for the Global Market

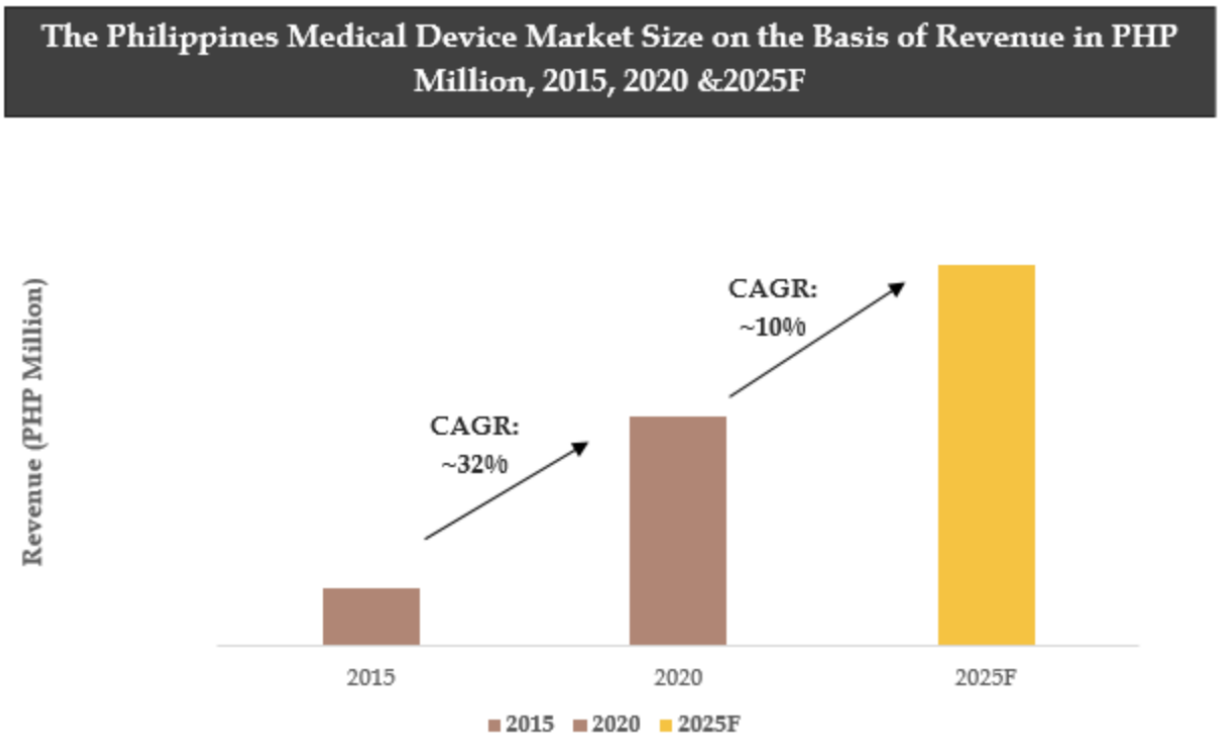

In 2023, the global healthcare market was valued at approximately USD 11 trillion. This includes expenditures on hospitals, pharmaceuticals, medical devices, and other healthcare services. The market is projected to grow at a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 8-10 % from 2023 to 2028, driven by factors such as an increasing global population, the rising prevalence of chronic diseases, and advancements in medical technology.

Global healthcare expenditure in 2023 was around 10 % of the global GDP, with variations by region. North America is the largest healthcare market, accounting for about 40 % of the global market, with the U.S. being a major contributor. Europe holds roughly 25 % of the market, with significant markets in Germany, France, and the UK. The Asia-Pacific region is rapidly growing and is expected to account for around 30 % of the market by 2028, driven by growth in China and India. The remaining portion of the global market includes Latin America, the Middle East, and Africa.

The global pharmaceutical market is valued at approximately $1.5 trillion USD, with an expected annual growth rate of 6-8 %. The medical device market is estimated to be worth around $500 billion USD, with a CAGR of 5-7 %. The telemedicine market is also growing rapidly, with a projected CAGR of around 20 % from 2023 to 2028, due to technological advancements and the increasing adoption of remote care solutions.

Outlook for the Philippine Market

The Philippines Medical Devices market is expected to have a double-digit growth by 2025. The main causes are the rise of chronic diseases and demand in cancer, kidney and dialysis treatments. Another contributing factor is the increase in elderly care, with an average life expectancy at 71.4 years old and respiratory diseases brought about by the Covid-19 pandemic. Medical consumables gained the most market share, followed by diagnostic imaging products, respiratory products, hospital furniture, and cardiac devices.

A notable trend is that Filipinos are cautious of preventive measures in health care, thus the rise in demand for early diagnosis products and wearable products which are affordable, efficient, accurate, and easy to use. Government also plays an important role in implementing policies for foreign investment in the Healthcare sector and through universal healthcare coverage.

With a growing population, the pharmaceutical industry in the Philippines is likewise experiencing a forecasted growth in revenue due to the demand for more affordable generic medicines which is in line with the government's initiatives for accessible healthcare - The "Botika ng Bayan" initiative. These generic medicines amount to 50 % of sales based on similar drug types. Another trend to look out for is the economic growth of this developing country resulting in the increase in middle class with more buying power for pharmaceutical products.

4.1 Healthcare products

4.1.1 Total Pharma

According to a report by Grand View Research (2023), the global pharmaceutical market was valued at approximately $1.5 trillion USD in 2023. The market is projected to grow at a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 6-8 % from 2023 to 2028 (Grand View Research, 2023). This growth is driven by advancements in medical research, increasing prevalence of chronic diseases, and expanding healthcare infrastructure globally (Grand View Research, 2023).

In the Philippine context, the pharmaceutical market is expected to generate a revenue of $2,068.00 million USD, with Oncology Drugs being the largest market at $274.60 million USD (Statista, 2024). The market's projected growth from 2024 to 2029 is at 2.39 %, voluming at $2,327.00 million USD by 2029. The increasing demand for affordable and accessible generic drugs in the country is driving this growth.

4.1.2 Pharma by Sector

According to a report by Statista (2023), the pharmaceutical market is segmented into various sectors, each with its own characteristics and growth drivers. Innovative Pharmaceuticals include patented and novel drugs, commanding a substantial market share with high investments in research and development. Over-the-Counter (OTC) medications also represent a significant portion of the market, driven by increasing consumer demand for non-prescription products. Biopharmaceuticals are experiencing rapid growth, fueled by advancements in biotechnology and personalised medicine (Statista, 2023).

The Philippines' over-the Counter medications, in particular, sees a significant growth at a CAGR of 8.37 % from 2024-2029 with the projection of generating a revenue of $1,618.00 million USD. Among these OTC medications, it is the vitamins and minerals that hold the largest market volume at $565.30 million USD in 2024 (Statista, 2024).

4.1.3 Generic vs Branded

The pharmaceutical landscape is shaped by the dynamic interplay between Generic Pharmaceuticals and their Branded counterparts. Generics, though they currently occupy about 30 % of the global market, are rapidly gaining ground, driven by their appeal as cost-effective alternatives. On the other hand, branded pharmaceuticals continue to dominate, fueled by relentless innovation and the steady stream of new drug approvals that keep them at the forefront of the industry (IQVIA, 2023).

Generic pharmaceuticals in the Philippines hold a larger market share compared to the originator drug in terms of licensing. Additionally, branded generic drugs dominate the market, accounting for about 90 % of total sales while only 5 % for unbranded generic drugs. Likewise, branded generic drugs also hold a larger share of total sales than originator drugs among multinational companies. However, it is important to note that the difference is not as significant with the local companies (Philippine Competition Commission, 2022).

4.1.4 Home Medical Equipment

The home medical equipment market, valued at a robust $60 billion USD in 2023, is more than just a key player in the healthcare landscape—it's a sector on the rise. With the growing embrace of home-based healthcare solutions, this market is expected to surge forward, anticipating a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 8-10 % in the near future. This trend reflects a broader shift towards more personalised, accessible healthcare (Market Research Future, 2023).

4.1.5 Hospital Equipment

In 2023, the hospital equipment market was estimated to be a formidable $200 billion USD. This sector is not just maintaining its momentum; it's set for steady expansion, with a projected compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 5-7 %. The driving forces behind this growth are technological advancements and a surge in healthcare investments, signalling a bright future for hospital infrastructure and innovation (Grand View Research, 2023).

The market for these medical devices in the Philippines–both home and hospital equipment–is seeing an increase in demand for advanced imaging technologies to improve diagnostic capabilities. According to Statista (2024), this market is expected to exhibit a CAGR of 9.39 % between 2024 and 2029. This results in a market volume of $1,017.00 million USD by 2029. It is also anticipated that the Cardiology devices will have the largest share of the market in 2024.

4.2 Healthcare Services

4.2.1 Out-Patient Services

The out-patient services sector within healthcare is experiencing significant growth, driven by advancements in technology and the increasing appeal of cost-effective care. As more patients opt for outpatient solutions, this market is expected to expand at a healthy compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 7-9 %, marking a transformative shift in how healthcare is delivered (Deloitte Insights, 2023).

There is a growing trend in the Philippines on out-patient services driven by the establishment of more healthcare facilities due to the need for accessible and affordable healthcare services. In 2024, the out-patient services sector is forecasted to reach $1.42 billion USD. It is expected to reach a market volume of $2.31 billion USD in 2029 with a growth rate of 10.22 % from 2024-2029 (Statista, 2024).

4.2.2 In-Patient Services

In-patient services continue to be a cornerstone of the healthcare services market, maintaining its critical role despite a slower growth trajectory compared to outpatient care. The focus for this sector is shifting towards enhancing patient outcomes and improving operational efficiency, reflecting a steady evolution within the realm of hospital-based care (Statista, 2023).

The Philippines is also seeing a trend in in-patient services as demand is increasing for specialized medical treatments and facilities. The in-patient services sector is forecasted to reach $3,659 million US in 2024. With an expected market volume of $5,591 million USD in 2029, the sector may exhibit a CAGR of 8.85 % from 2024-2029 (Statista, 2024).

4.2.3 Government Healthcare vs Private Healthcare

The global healthcare landscape is marked by a dynamic interplay between Government Healthcare and Private Healthcare. Government-funded healthcare represents a substantial share of global spending, with its reach and impact varying widely from one country to another. In contrast, private healthcare is experiencing rapid expansion, particularly in developed nations, driven by rising demand for personalised services and reduced wait times. This growing sector reflects an evolving preference for tailored and timely care (World Health Organization, 2023).

In the Philippines, public healthcare (or government healthcare) primarily focuses on preventive and primary care. This includes public health education. Private healthcare, on the other hand, focuses on specialized care for cardiovascular diseases, cancer, pulmonology, and orthopedics. According to the International Trade Administration (2024), there is continuous growth in the country's healthcare system driven by private equities pursuing investments, acquiring smaller hospitals, and upgrading hospital infrastructures. Moreover, large hospital groups are key players in the development of hospitals and financing facility upgrades across the country.

4.3 Healthcare Logistics

4.3.1 Mobile Hospitals

The mobile hospitals market is on the rise, fueled by growing demand for emergency care and services in remote areas. This sector is set to expand at an impressive compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 10-12 %, driven by technological advancements and escalating healthcare needs. Mobile hospitals are increasingly becoming a crucial component in delivering flexible and timely medical support wherever it's needed most (Global Market Insights, 2023).

A key factor in this growth is the adoption of mobile devices, which dominated the global healthcare mobility solutions market in 2022. Devices such as medical tablets, mobile carts, and wearables enhance patient care by enabling on-the-go access to patient data and communication. Features like barcode scanners and RFID readers also streamline workflows and improve data management in mobile hospitals (Reports and Data, 2023)

4.3.2 Pharma Delivery Equipment

Pharma delivery equipment is carving out its niche within the broader healthcare logistics sector, spotlighting innovations in cold chain and secure delivery solutions. As the demand for sophisticated pharmaceutical logistics continues to rise, this market is expanding rapidly. Cutting-edge advancements are driving growth, ensuring that sensitive medications are transported efficiently and safely to meet the evolving needs of the healthcare industry (DHL, 2023).

In the Philippines, the pharmaceutical drug delivery market is valued at $4.05 billion and is projected to expand to $6.01 billion, with a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 5.06 % from 2023 to 2030 (Solanki, 2024).

4.3.3 Controlled Environment Warehousing

Controlled environment warehousing is a cornerstone of pharmaceutical logistics, essential for managing temperature-sensitive products. As the demand for biologics and vaccines rises, the need for specialised storage solutions is set to grow. This sector is poised for expansion, driven by the critical requirement to maintain optimal conditions for sensitive pharmaceuticals throughout their supply chain journey (Pharmaceutical Commerce, 2023).

In the Philippines, between 2023 and 2030, this sector is anticipated to expand significantly, with the market size projected to grow from USD 840.64 million to USD 1,240.31 million. This represents a robust compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 9.80 % (Data Bridge Market Research, 2024). The expansion is driven by the imperative to ensure that sensitive medications and biologics are stored and transported under precisely controlled conditions, safeguarding their efficacy and integrity throughout the supply chain.
